President's Message Mark Ferracane

Well, we did the South Shore Show with Great Success! Geoff told me we had more people around our layout than the Clubs layout. I believe him! The Children Loved seeing Thomas and his Friends running around the Layout. They also enjoyed watching Toshi's and my Bullet trains.

The Bedford Boomers show was great! But sadly there will be no Show next year. Bummer! The Cost to rent the school has risen and it went from $700 to over $2800. That stinks! But thanks to inflation there will be No Bedford Boomers Show next year. We can only hope that they decide to have another show. Hopefully at another location. So far we have done 3 shows this year and all have been successful! We have one more show in November, The Greenburg Show at the Shriners in Wilmington. On the 17th and 18th.

We will NOT be doing the Boy Scouts , South Shore Model Railroad Show on January 11th due to it being a Friday night and that it is only for a few hours 5-7pm. A few members may attend to talk about the club.

Then we will be doing the Big E Show in West Springfield. I look forward to the show every year. We get together with 12 more clubs to make a 33x80 Layout. Wow! The Winterfest Page, on the internet, should be up soon! The T-Shirts will be White with red lettering and we will have Coffee Mugs this year. No Beer Glasses! LOL! This year you can Pay by PayPal or send in a check. There will be a $2.00 fee for PayPal Payments.

Til Next Month
Mark

Ntrak Steals the Show in Hingham by Geoffrey Smith

Northeast Ntrak's participation in the South Shore Model Railroad Club's open house was wildly successful. At various times during the two days there were as many people crowded around our 10x14 foot display as there were around the massive HO scale layout we shared space with.

Train by Frank Dignan

A very special thanks to Toshiyuki Abe, Frank Dignan, Carl Mesrobian, and Peter Mathews for bringing modules; and a special Purple Heart awarded to Peter for making the long traffic-plagued trek from Billerica to Hingham on Friday night to deliver his modules and the show boxes. He spent an hour and twenty minutes in the tunnels – and then God knows how long driving home again! Thanks too to those who came to run trains. Peter's efforts make me wonder if we might want to consider taking some of the funds on hand and investing in another set of set-up boxes that can be kept on the South Shore somewhere so he's not the only one who must go to every show?

Thanks to everyone!

Maine Central Railroad, Calais, Maine
by Larry Kelley

Calais, ME in late 1960's. Train BC-1 sits on the Main Track with crew resting for trip West in the afternoon. CB-2 will make connections with No 438/439 at Campbells for the Woodland traffic westbound. CB-2 will make up to 13 stops enroute to Bangor lifting at all the little towns through Washington County and Hancock County. The train will lift pulpwood along the way making the train 40 - 50 cars into Bangor. After leaving Calais the next communication from CB-2 will be Tower RD at Bangor who will be calling on the radio to get traffic information so the Yard Master will be able to find a place to yard the train. The way it used to be at Calais, Maine at Hoggg Alley. On the other side of the river is St. Stephen, New Brunswick, Canada

Here is an unexpected photo and comment from my Grandson Jeff Pawling (one of Dan Jr's. boys) who is presently living in Bozeman MT. To me the shot completely expresses his frustration. Hooray for Jeff!! I believe that the rail line is Montana RailLink in Bozeman. Dan Pawling, Sr.

Historic Dining Car at 2012 National Train Day Show "Cannon Ball" by Dan Pawling Sr.

DINING ROOM

Later it went to the Norfolk & Western RR and then, in 1974, it was acquired by private interests which operate it today. (These notes are from AMRTAK's show catalog). It has a Master Bedroom (Photo above left), a double bedroom, two open sections, crew quarters, two showers/bathroom (photo above right), On to the right column first is the dining room, next the buffet/storage on one end wall. The observation lounge with wet bar on left out of sight. Note the open platform in the background and the final ornaments on this jewel of a car the drum head and the flags in the bottom photo. "Blessings, old timer...keep on rollin' with no sunsets on the (t)rail!"

Historic Dining Car at 2012 National Train Day Show "The AT&SF El Capitan" by Dan Pawling Sr.

Epicurus This car was built in 1950 for the AT & SF RR by Pullman-Standard . It ran on the El Capitan between Chicago and Los Angeles. Photo above. "It is the only authentic, privately owned Dining car operating in mainline intercity service (today)." The car has a full galley and two different seating areas.

The southwestern motif runs the length of the car above the windows (Photos bottom left column). The counter seating got me thinking of pie a la mode and a coffee, although for a full meal I like a forward facing seat to also enjoy the scenery on both sides of the train.

One was a complete surprise for me-- the familiar counter-style layout of a land-based diner. Photo above. Note the coffee brewer and soda fountain equipment. Unfortunately, they were not serving that day.

Editors Note: Diner style cars were for people who did not want to eat a big meal or could not afford the dining car. That was me in the late 50's when I was stationed in Montana in the Air Force. I eat in the diner style car on the Great Northern Empire Builder several times. I was in the service at the time and the dining car was out of my budget. They were not that bad as I remember. To go home on leave I would take it from Great Falls, Montana to Chicago. Yes I know Great Northern did not run trains into Great Falls, but they did have a bus painted just like the trains that did. It would take me to the Havre, Montana station to pick up the train. Upon return it would be waiting for the train in Havre and return us to Great Falls. Then when I got to Chicago I changed to Penn Central. Boy what a difference. Penn Central trains were run down and not heated and this was December, and dirty. Well that was my times in a real train diner. hahaha
